THE NEWS.

For some unexplained reason we are without our usual associated press dispatches this morning.

The news from Florida is disastrous. The expedition has met a sad reverse. Our forces were attacked by a superior force of rebels about fifteen miles from Jacksonville, on the line of the Jacksonville and Tallahassee railroad, Middle Florida, and routed, resulting in the retreat of the Union forces, with a loss of ten guns thousand to fifteen hundred in killed, wounded and missing.

Farragut's fleet are off Mobile, and were to engage Fort Gaines on the 16th inst. Despatches were received on the 20th to send ships, which is already noticeable in the detention of the Confederate pirate Rappahannock.

The commission of Lieutenant General, conferred by Congress upon General Grant, is now on its way to the hero of Missionary Ridge, in the possession of Mr. Washburne. The bill for them well won and will be worthily worn.

Richmond is in a fever of excitement over the discovery of a bed of camel coal in the vicinity of St. Paul. The important geological fact will have a new impetus to the manufacturing interests of this young and flourishing State.

Upon the inside of this issue will be found the full text of the conscription bill and the bill suspending the Habeas Corpus, recently passed by the rebel Congress. These are significant reading for the Copperheads. If they are so bitterly opposed to the Union conscription bill, suppose they emigrate and abide for a time or for all time, with their Southern brethren, and try the virtues of the Southern code. If they are consistent they will certainly do so.

THE SITUATION

Our readers will be pained to learn of the disastrous termination of the Florida expedition, which Gen. Seymour, with a column of 5,000 of our thinned men, has been forced to abandon, with a loss of ten or twelve hundred killed, wounded and prisoners. It is a disparagement to our soldiers to say that the General industry, a small number of pieces of artillery and a few squadrons of cavalry, the whole force cannot be regarded as essentially with an army of fifteen thousand men, well armed and appointed, and admirably supplied with munitions and material in their own country. While we mourn the untimely termination of that expedition, there is no occasion for despondency. It will be very strange if among the many expeditions pointing in a common centre, and having a common end in view, we should not misearry. The Florida expedition was one of a series of movements designed to result in the capture of Mobile and the driving of the entire rebel force from the States of Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia, and compelling them to concentrate in North Carolina, South Carolina or Virginia. It is often policy to meditate a pawn to secure a check mate. In this light of this proposition that the TRIBUNE of the 4th of February, we indicated the opening movements of the armies of the South West, and stated what we believed to be the line of policy directed by sound military science. We said that the capture of Mobile and Ohio Railroad, was the objective point, in the first instance, with Selma, Alabama, on the Tombigbee, as the probable ultimate objective point. We showed that Corinth, if its capture were at all desirable or expedient, was to be approached not immediately approached by way of Selma, as we direct almost to front and rear. We showed that a flank movement was the one indicated both by the circumstances of the case and the topography of the country. Walls of the possession of Mobile, which was to the ultimate objective point of attack, we gave it as our opinion that that city would be of undistributed for the present, (and that sound policy dictated an advance into the corn growing and pork producing region of Central Alabama and Georgia,) which would involve the evacuation of Mobile and the raising army. The difficulty of obtaining supplies over a line near two hundred miles long, was one reason adduced for pushing the army into this section of country, where it could subsist, which go to make up the munitions of war, many products in abundance, and avail the taking. Another reason was that a demonstration could be more readily made against Johnston's army from the Mississippi, and in this direction, as Gen. Sherman, according to the latest advices, the destruction of the railroad between Meridian and Selma, and Selma and Montgomery, what might be in some sense be considered insuperable obstacles to the march of our army. Our predictions and opinions have been singularly verified.

But to strike with a force sufficient to overcome a circle of one hundred and fifty miles around Atlanta, the point occupied by Johnston's army, to look at the military situation as indicated by the points of departure of the grand division of the armies of the West, and the points of contact and operation we will consider as the common ultimate point of attack. First then, we have the expedition under Gen. Palmer, which has just struck the northern edge of the circle at Dalton; the 14th corps under Gen. Palmer, moving southward in a point of junction with the army of the Cumberland, which is already retired from Knoxville, and the army of the Ohio, under Gen. Schofield, will be far on its way to Atlanta. Schofield will follow Palmer, and bring a weighty column from the left to operate against the united forces of Johnston and Hood.

This is the situation from our stand point. Whether it is the situation from our stand point. Whether it is the situation from our stand point. Whether it

GREELEY AND BENNETT.

Greeley and Bennett hunt in couples. They pretend to hate each other, but the hatred is a sham. When Greeley is a candidate for office Bennett supports him and vice versa. When Bennett applied to Buchanan to be appointed minister to France, the Tribune stoutly advocated it and used all its influence to induce Buchanan to confer the honor. When Greeley was a candidate for Senator, the N. Y. Herald insisted that he should have it, and denounced the Republicans of the Legislature for giving the office to Judge Harris. Notwithstanding the Herald calls Greeley the "big villain," and the latter repays the flattering compliment by christening Bennett "Old Satanic," yet they are, as "thick as two thieves," behind the rose-bush. Take the course of the papers since the war began and see how they have traveled on parallel lines, not far apart. They differed more in style of discussion than in gist of argument. After any serious defeat or reverse sustained by our armies Greeley would be sure to show the white feather and give up our cause as hopelessly lost, and Bennett would predict certain triumph for the rebellion and advocate a cessation of hostilities. Greeley more than once leaned strongly to an armistice and intimated that he was willing to surrender the fight and accept such terms as the rebels might offer. Bennett advised that the New England States should be left out in the cold, and that the remaining Free States should adopt the Montgomery Constitution and annex themselves to the rebel confederacy.

Not long before the battle of Gettysburg and the capture of Vicksburg, Greeley proposed the fighting of one more pitched battle, and if the Union army were whipped, he advised that we should give up beat, consent to a division of the Union and let the seceded States slide. Bennett moved an amendment to the effect that Lincoln should be deposed, and McClellan made dictator with authority to make peace with Jeff. Davis on the best terms he could get.

A few weeks since the New York Herald broke ground against Mr. Lincoln's re-election, and commenced a series of scurrilous and libellous articles, misrepresenting his motives and motives, and in order to strengthen its attack brought out Gen. Grant for President. The latter peremptorily refused to allow his name to be used in such connection. Bennett continued the defamatory opposition to the President, but has not yet hit on an available candidate to run against him. Greeley meantime never opened his mouth to vindicate the President from the aspersions and falsehoods of the Herald, but by his silence kept his sanction to the lies of his brother Bennett. And now we have set aside the mask of friendship for the President, and openly join the old Satanic in its crusade, and for the future we may expect to witness the Herald and Tribune pay into the hands of the Copperheads and rebels in their attack upon the chief of the Administration. If he can be broken down and the great loyal party that supports his measures, distracted and divided, the left wing of the rebellion, the Northern Copperheads, will succeed at the polls more fell, and the triumph of the right wing under Jeff. Davis, will be assured. That is the logical sequence of the arguments of Greeley and Bennett against the President. Greeley's chronic hatred of Lincoln dates back to 1857, and to gratify his malice he has fettered into partnership with Bennett to break him down, let the consequence to the country be what they may. Hence is seen the strange sight of the New York Tribune and Herald hunting in couples to hound down our noble and patriotic President. They will miserably fail.

THE VETERANS.

It is already evident that this giving furloughs to the troops who have been so long in the field is a masterly stroke of good policy, as well as of justice and humanity. Soldiers are men. They are generally, too, young men, with feelings and sympathies keen and living. Away from home and friends month after month, many have fallen sick, others become accustomed to the service, or even to like it, their love of home and the friends they have left there has not at all died out of their souls, nor become dim by age, but has rather heightened and strengthened by time. The longing of the hearts is to visit home once more. Those in the army who have watched this thing declare that the motive which has so operated to secure re-enlistments among the veterans is bound up in their very souls, and that nothing would have been in vain; that patriotism, plenty and good as it is, would not have availed; because the soldier reasons that he has had his share of exposure, and that those at home ought now to take their chance. If the furlough could not be repeated, to go home and see wife and baby a month, and mix in with his old companions, and tell his story, and feel the sympathy of his neighbors, it is pay for months of toil, and he can then go back to the field with new content and a new stock of courage.

But not only glad to see home and old friends. We are all glad to see the soldiers. We looked at the regiments, three years ago, as they marched away, with a proud yet mournful interest, asking ourselves, how many of these generous fellows will ever return? We are glad to see them when they do return—each of them as yet serving the marches, and battles, and sieges, and fevers and exposures of these campaigns. We are anxious to see what effect their campaigning has had upon them, in body and mind. What it will do when they get back to their old trade, or among the old people. What is it? His prophecies may be as true as scripture; but Saul himself is not a whit better for it. He is the same stubborn, stupid, intriguing fellow he was before he put on his coat of mail, and will be the same when he puts it off.

Now, on the eve of a Presidential contest, is not the time to forget, that this is not the occasion for the Democratic party to die; none of us do this necessarily at the end of the year. As we have said upon that subject, the Democrats are pretty positive of their standing ground on which to fight the coming battle. The party is prone to find fault; and surely the Democracy has just cause to find fault with the track where they have been guided along. Has the people's party been guided along that track? Has it not been led astray, many years, from the Union and peace; and are we not, now, in the midst of the most terrible war that ever was waged, that the Union party has ever had to end? Has not the party been guided along, from the beginning of the war, by the most corrupt and imbecile leaders that ever misled a party? Has not the party been led astray

THE CITY.

SEATS FOR THE OPERATIC CONCERT.—The sale of reserved seats for the operatic concert will commence at H. M. Higgins' music store this (Monday) morning, at 9 o'clock.

A PUBLIC MEETING will be held in Metropolitan Hall on Monday evening, on "the Sioux." The best arrangement will be sufficient to fill the house to overflowing.

COLONEL DISABLED WOUNDED.—Mrs. Hotaling, wife of Col. Hotaling, of the 34th Illinois infantry, received a telegram on Saturday morning from Selma, Ala., stating that her husband was dangerously wounded, and requesting her immediate presence.

ARRIVAL OF VETERANS.—On Saturday morning, about 1 o'clock, 60 veterans, principally belonging to the 15th Wisconsin, in charge of Capt. Craig, arrived at the Soldiers' Rest, where they breakfasted, after which they took their departure for Cairo, where they will be transferred to their respective regiments.

A NERVED ARREST.—That notorious den of iniquity known as "Lying the Willow," was pulled on Saturday night, and between forty and fifty persons arrested. Under the protection afforded by the unusual and numerous force of the Police Board, these places have grown to be great nuisances than before.

ROBBING THE MAILS.—A youth of about thirteen years of age, named Smith Brown, was brought before Commissioner Hoyne on Saturday, on a charge of robbing the mails at Watsequa. It is charged that he entered the Postoffice there and took away about $15.45 in postage stamps and a lot of mail-bag keys. The case was continued till Tuesday. The boy is very respectably connected, and the affair is a sad blow to his parents.

EXPIRMENT OF SQUATTER SOVEREIGNS.—Friday (Washington's) Alfred took out twenty-three writs of restitution against parties living on Fourth Boundary street, near the Burlington Railroad crossing, in Wicker's addition. He did possessed thirteen of them, and the rest agreed to leave as soon as possible. The officer met with no real opposition, though one or two persons threatened to shoot.

BOUNTIES TO RECRUITS.—The War Fund Committee of Cook county has already paid out bounties to 2,100 recruits, which, with those paid exclusively by the city, will make about two thousand that have been credited to the county since the last call for 500,000 men. This is very good, but it still leaves a deficit of several hundred, and the days are few. Therefore, the interested bounties are urged to hurry. Those who wish to take the magnificent offer of the Government, don't be allowed to loose; they must fall in at once.

ALLEGED FORGERY.—On Friday evening, Wm. Vanhiseman, an individual well known at justice's offices, was charged before Justice Haase and Peterson with having the signature of M. F. Keayon to some papers, to serve upon a Mrs. Mary C. Matteson. The documents described Keayon to be a recruiting officer in the city, but some suspicion arose in the mind of a woman of that name who has had business connections with the defendant, and it is supposed that no such name is in the manner described. For the purpose of securing the presence of one or two material witnesses for the prosecution, the case was continued, without being fixed, until Saturday next.—Vanhiseon giving bail for his appearance.

U. S. INTERNAL REVENUE TAX FOR 1864.—Attention is called to the Assessor's notice, which will be found in the inside of this paper. The income tax for the year ending Dec. 31, 1863; Licenses, carriage, billiard table, 1st advar plate tax for the year ending April 1st, 1864.

The 1st will be required this year much earlier than last, blanks having already been received. The Assessor will proceed at once to collect the amount due, and all those who will not be demanded until the 15th day of June next.

All licenses expire on the 1st day of May next, and all persons intending to continue business after that period, will be required to procure them at once. Payment of licenses will not be required until after the first day of May.

THE LATE GENERAL WYMAN.—HIS REMAINS ENROUTE TO CINCINNATI.—The body of the late General John K. Wyman was brought in City from the depot to the Tremont House by a literary delegation of the old Light Guard, that regiment of which he had been the colonel, and to which he has done so much to secure his remains from the obscurity to which they had been consigned. The funeral services of this place at the Universalist church on Sunday, at 10 o'clock. At that hour the bells will toll for Scadish Cemetery, where all that is mortal of the hero will be interred, and a salute will be fired by a fitting regiment. Members of the military organizations will be notified in time to join in the procession.

FRENCHIES, MASSACRE'S COMPANY.—It has been thought by many that Massaro has not as yet produced a full company, and that he is still on the recruiting ground, contrary to law and to the rights of other recruiters. Such, however, is not the case, as Massaro's company is full, and has been mustered into service as a company. Recruiting is now going on for the remaining three companies of the regiment, and it is expected that they will be filled up in a few days. Massaro's regiment is now encamped at Camp Fuller, in Rockford, and will be ready for the field in a few days. Its colonel is a gentleman of the highest character, and the regiment will be a credit to the State.

RECRUITING IN THE CITY.—The following is the number of recruits enlisted in the city during the week ending Saturday last, which, though it is not as large as it should be, is very good, but it still leaves a deficit of several hundred, and the days are few. Therefore, the interested bounties are urged to hurry. Those who wish to take the magnificent offer of the Government, don't be allowed to loose; they must fall in at once.

ALLEGED FORGERY.—On Friday evening, Wm. Vanhiseman, an individual well known at justice's offices, was charged before Justices
